Spring is in the air, and Cooper Landing School is gardening! This year Ms. Emilie is taking each and every student through the process of growing their very own sunflower. They started seeds, and they have transplanted their starts. They will soon start measuring daily growth, and they will probably transplant one more time before they take them home for the summer. Students have also started seeds for the school greenhouse and garden; we are growing tomatoes, kohlrabi, cucumbers, and artichokes. A big thank you to Charlotte Osowiecki for getting us started on artichokes, and a big thank you to all who support our fundraisers and donate to the school. Your support makes our garden possible!
